

In the hose bib where the fuel line enters the carb, grab hold of the little plastic filter that stuffed in there with some noodle nosed pliers and rip that sucker out...

It can be WAY more trouble than it could ever be worth!... Just keep running a good inline filter and everything will be cool...

JF